

Alfred Marshall Fox

1850-1950 Centennial Biography

Alfred Marshall Fox, son of Isaac Winn and Margaret Ann Slinn Fox, was born September 13, 1842 in Sheffield, Yorkshire, England. He came to Utah with his parents in October 1860. He married Mary Southwick January 4, 1868 in the Endowment House at Salt Lake City. They had a family of eleven children, namely: Alfred E., Mary Marshall, Martha Ann, Israel William, Ida, Maudie, Robert S., Jennie, Ethel, LaVon, and Herald. Their first home was by the Jordan River, later they moved into the third ward where the house still stands.

As a young man, he made three trips east to the Missouri River to bring back emigrants.

He was a gifted musician and gave freely of his time and talents to the community and the church. He was a music teacher, accompanist, soloist and composed several hymns. He was chosen leader of the first Brass Band of Lehi. He held the position of choir leader in the Third Ward for many years.

He advanced in the Priesthood to the Office of High Priest, which he held at the time of his death. He also served as president of the Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association in the Third Ward for a number of years.

His occupation was farming, and music teacher. the latter taking him away from his home much of the time.

He died May 28, 1929.